Mr. Wiley T. Buchanan, Jr.
Chief of Protocol
Department of State
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Wiley:

Our visitor from Pakistan had some kind words to say about you and the Department during his visit and I quote them here as they were recently reported to me:

"The State Department has certainly played the game with me. I have a letter from Mr. Buchanan, the Chief Protocol Officer. He also told me some things in direct conversation. The letter I shall always treasure--and also the things he told me. He said to me that he wished he could have me travel around the United States for a whole month to make speeches to American audiences not for the good I would do Pakistan but, more importantly, for the good that I would do for the United States. That made me very proud. He is an excellent man. He did everything possible for me and showed me every consideration. I can say the same for his assistant, Clem Conger. The State Department has shown me the limit in kindness. They seem to have an almost perfect organization. I never dreamed that I would be treated with such consideration."

When I next see you, which will have to be after my return from Europe in September, I'll be happy to tell you the source of this.

With kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles
